To The Justice Department;

I am sending my strong opinion to the Justice Department to counter the self-serving and punitive lobbying effort of Microsoft's competitors. Under the current law the U.S. District Court is to decide whether the settlement is in the "public interest." The consumer interests have been well served, and the time to end this costly and damaging litigation has come.

Dragging out this legal battle further will only benefit a few wealthy competitors, lawyers, and special interest big-wigs. Not one new product that helps consumers will be brought to the marketplace.
